Leadership

Under my tenure as the Director of the Virginia Institute of Procurement, the Institute thrived as a leader in Procurement training throughout the Commonwealth of Virginia. I led the very first virtual conference offered to professionals within the field, which saw attendance double that of the previous in-person event. Under my direction, the Commonwealth developed and released a comprehensive and 100% virtual certification program for Contract Administrators aimed at reducing related waste for Commonwealth agencies, universities, and local entities. I, with assistance from subject matter experts, state policy writers, and Division management, rewrote the Commonwealth training curriculum responsible for certifying state buyers spending over $100,000 per transaction.
